Principal Conditions of Registration Summary

As a student of the University of Greenwich (“University”), you are expected to familiarise yourself with the University’s policies; please click to view These are the key documents that will support the relationship between you and the University and you should read them carefully to understand your rights and responsibilities as a student of the University.

When you register as a student, you will be required to agree to the University’s Principal Conditions of Registration (“PCRs”), which follow this summary. We have highlighted the following areas of information to ensure that you are aware of their content specifically. Please note however that this summary is not intended to replace you reading the PCRs in full which can be found on the following pages.

If you are an apprentice, your relationship with the university is governed by your apprenticeship training plan, however the Principal Conditions of Registration also apply. In the case of any conflict between these and the apprenticeship regulations, the apprenticeship regulations take precedence. Further details are set out in your apprenticeship training plan.

If you are in any doubt as to your understanding of the PCRs, you should seek advice from the University Secretary by emailing universitysecretary@greenwich.ac.uk.

All references below are to the relevant sections of the PCRs (available following this summary).

STUDENT'S DECLARATION

All students are required to read the statements listed below and complete the declaration at registration to confirm that they have read, understood and agree with the University of Greenwich ('the University') to abide by the undertakings, terms and conditions contained in this document. Definitions of the terms in italics are contained in Appendix A.

If you are an apprentice, your relationship with the university is governed by your apprenticeship training plan, however the Principal Conditions of Registration also apply. In the case of any conflict between these and the apprenticeship regulations, the apprenticeship regulations take precedence. Further details are set out in your apprenticeship training plan.

If you object to completing the Student Declaration because of one or more of the conditions set below, please make your objection in writing to the University Secretary at universitysecretary@greenwich.ac.uk.

The Principal Conditions of Registration (PCRs) and associated policies and procedures are prepared in advance of the academic year to which they relate, and every effort has been made to ensure that the information contained in them is fair and accurate at the time of publication. The Principal Conditions of Registration and our policies and procedures are regularly reviewed and may change in future academic years in which you register as a student.

Please be aware that by completing the Student Declaration and agreeing to the Principal Conditions of Registration and associated policies and procedures by registering as a student, you are entering into a legally binding contract with the University. You have the right to cancel this contract within 14 days from the date of completing your registration. To exercise your right to cancel, you should complete a request to withdraw from your studies in accordance with the University's procedures on withdrawal/interruption of study. Any refund due to you will be as specified in the relevant Regulations on Student Financial Matters or the Postgraduate Research Degrees Tuition Fees Charging and Refund Policy.

The University will do all that it reasonably can do to provide educational services as described on its website or in the prospectus or other documents issued by it to appropriately registered students. Sometimes circumstances may mean that we cannot provide such educational services or that the University has to withdraw or change aspects of the programmes, modules and/or student services detailed in the information you have been provided with by the University. This might be because of, for example:

- industrial action by University staff or third parties;
- the unanticipated departure or absence of key members of University staff;
- acts of terrorism;
- a major disruption event;
- the acts of any government or local authority;
- academic changes within subject areas; or
- where the numbers recruited to a programme or module are so low that it is not possible to deliver an appropriate quality of education for students enrolled on it.

In these circumstances, the University will take all reasonable steps to minimise any possible disruption caused to those services and affected students, for example by making reasonable modifications, but to the full extent that it is possible under the general law. The University excludes liability for any loss and/or damage suffered by any applicant or student as a result of these circumstances.

The modifications we make may be to:

- the content and syllabus of programmes, including in relation to placements;
- the timetable, location and number of classes;
- the content or method of delivery of programmes of study;
- the examination process; and
- the timing and method of assessment

Many of the changes that we make are in response to feedback from students and are intended to improve the experience of students and student outcomes.

In making any changes, the University will aim to keep significant changes to the minimum necessary and will notify and where reasonably possible also consult with you in advance about any significant changes that are required. Where significant changes have been made to your programme and you are not satisfied with the changes, you will be offered the opportunity to withdraw from the programme, move to another programme and, if required, reasonable support to transfer to another provider as a last resort. Please see the relevant Regulations on Student Financial matters or the Postgraduate Research Degrees Tuition Fees Charging and Refund Policy. for information on your rights regarding refund and compensation arrangements in the event of disruption and/or changes to educational services.

For more information on how the University of Greenwich has assessed and planned to mitigate possible risks to the delivery of your programme of study, please see the University's Student Protection Plan.
